

Australian General Practice Training (AGPT) Program Entry in 2020:

Application and Selection Process

Apply online through your preferred College/s

You apply to the AGPT Program through the College that you wish to achieve Fellowship with. If you wish to undertake a dual Fellowship you will need to apply to both Colleges within the same year, nominate the same training region and rural pathway preferences for both Colleges and complete the training concurrently.

Applications are open 10:00am AEST Monday 2 September 2019 to 3:00pm AEST Monday 23 September 2019. Please note the variance if you are in a different time zone.

Access to the application form can be found at the Colleges website:

Determine the appropriate rural and/or general pathway

The AGPT program has two training pathways: Rural Pathway and General Pathway.

The Rural Pathway encompasses a large percentage of the Australian countryside reaching from towns on the fringe of capital cities, to regional coastal areas and remote outback locations. Doctors who train on the rural pathway must train in MM2–7 locations.

The General Pathway is for doctors who choose to train primarily in inner and outer metropolitan locations or have the flexibility to train anywhere within the training region. Doctors on the general pathway can train in MM 1–7 locations.

Applicants for the AGPT Program must nominate either the general or rural pathway for each training region preference.

To view an interactive map and search MM locations visit the Department of Health website at: www.health.gov.au/resources/apps-and-tools/health-workforce-locator

For information around the restrictions on selecting training pathways in relation to Section 19AB of the Health Insurance Act 1973 please refer to the 2020 AGPT Eligibility Guidelines available at www.agpt.com.au

Please refer to the 2020 AGPT Eligibility Guidelines for further information.

Choose your preferred training region

The Department of Health contracts nine Regional Training Organisations (RTO) to deliver the AGPT Program. Each of the nine RTOs occupies one or more training regions throughout Australia.

A map of the training regions can be found at www.agpt.com.au/Training-organisations/Training-Regions

Applicants nominate their preferred training region/s; however they are not typically able to choose a specific location within that training region to undertake their training.

Applicants are encouraged to choose up to four training region preferences.

Applicants should choose training region/s they wish to train in, for the duration of their AGPT training.

Applicants are only able to accept training place offers in one training region.

An applicant's eligibility will be assessed for the AGPT Program's 2020 intake by the Department of Health. It is recommended that applicants read the 2020 AGPT Eligibility Guidelines at www.agpt.com.au for detailed information on eligibility.

- ✓ Eligible applicants' details will be released to the College/s who will contact applicants
- ✗ Ineligible applicants will be notified via email by the Department of Health

Applicants are encouraged to review their preferred RTO/s websites, or contact them directly, for further information. A list of RTOs and training regions is available on the AGPT website at <http://www.agpt.com.au/Training-organisations/Existing-Training-Organisations-by-State/Territory/copy-of-Regional-Training-Providers>

Training Place Offers

Applicants will be shortlisted to their highest available training region preference, for training place offer consideration.

RTOs will advise applicants if they have received a training place offer.

- ✓ Successful applicants have seven days to accept or reject the offer of a training place.
- ✗ Unsuccessful applicants may participate in new intakes in the same application year, should they be available and dependent on College policy.

There is no guarantee of further intakes.
